CHAS. GLASS KILLED.

His Body Carefully Placed on the Railroad Track.

SEVERAL MEN ARE ARRESTED.

The Police Perplexed—Theories Advanced as to the Guilty Party—Many Wounds.

As train No. 17, of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, was nearing Tropico shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, Engineer Kelly saw the body of a man lying across the track right ahead of the train. He at once reversed his engine and whistled for brakes, so as to stop the engine, if possible, before reaching the body. Owing to the speed at which he was then running he was unable to prevent the train from striking the man; but the cowcatcher of the locomotive rolled the body off the track, and the wheels of the locomotive only passed over the man's right hand. When the train was brought to a standstill a few feet further along the track, Engineer Kelly ran back to the place where the body lay, and he noticed that the crushed hand was not bleeding, and, stooping down, it was discovered that the man had evidently been dead several hours before the train struck him. Leaving a brakeman in charge of the body, Engineer Kelly pulled into town, and as soon as possible on arrival reported the affair to the operator in charge of the Arcade. Coroner Meredith was notified of the discovery of the body, and acting under his orders, Messrs. Orr & Sutch's wagon was sent out to bring the body into the morgue. It was identified by one of the undertakers' assistants as that of Charlie Glass, a blacksmith, who had two shops, one on Olive street and another on Second, between San Pedro and Los Angeles streets. The matter was put into the hands of Chief Glass, who proceeded to the place where the body was found by Engineer Kelly; and on his return Detective Bosqui was detailed to investigate the matter. It was ascertained that Glass hired a four-seated surrey and double team from the Empire stables about 9:30 o'clock on Saturday night, for the purpose of driving out to a dance in an empty house, belonging to a man named Hunter, in the Verdugo cañon, near the Three Mile House. He was accompanied by four men, two of whom went with him to the stable where he hired the team, the other two being picked up later. The quintette then drove to J. Kennedy's saloon on Spring street for refreshments, and from there to a saloon just beyond the Buena Vista-street bridge. No further stop was made until within a quarter of a mile from the house where the dance was being held, when the party stopped at a saloon to inquire their way. After partaking of more drinks, they drove on to the dance, arriving at the house about 11 o'clock. They then separated and at about 4 o'clock a. m. Glass' friends left the house in the surrey to drive home, Glass having gone down to the saloon some time previously. The quartet called at the saloon and found Glass there, whereupon they all drank again prior to driving home. A dispute arose and several fights occurred between Glass and his friends and a party of Mexicans who had attended the dance. Suddenly Glass was missing and a search was instituted for him by some of his friends, but he was not to be found and it was agreed that he had either gone home or else he must have wandered off and fallen asleep near by. Some of his friends went home, while others of the party waited until daylight to renew the search, and nothing more was learned of him apparently until their arrival in town, when it was rumored that Charlie Glass had been killed.

Detective Bosqui, acting under the instructions of the Chief, proceeded to the Empire stable and learned that the vehicle which had been hired by Glass on Saturday night had been returned at 6:45 o'clock yesterday morning by one of his companions. The hostler, August Schone, who received, it stated that on examining the buggy, to which he hitched a fresh team, for the purpose of meeting the 7:15 train at the Arcade depot, he found the cushions and carpet covered with blood. He also gave the detective a description of the two men who accompanied Glass when he hired the team, and told him that the man who brought the carriage back said they had a "little scrap," which delayed their return. The detective shortly after 12 o'clock arrested O. W. Stevens, the man who returned the team, on Spring street, and took him to the station, where he was locked up pending an investigation. About an hour later the officer placed C. H. Sweeny and Eugene McMahon behind the bars. Each of the three men was locked up in a separate cell, and his statement of the affair taken down in writing at the instance of the Chief.

STEVENS' STATEMENT.

O. W. Stevens, alias "Shorty," is 19 years old, and a native of Winona, Tremplo county, Wis. He states that he met Charlie Glass about 9 p. m. on Saturday, and took a drink with him. After that they went into the Empire stables together, and Glass engaged a two-seated surrey. They then drove over to Budinger's barn and waited there for a while for the rest of the boys, E. McMahon, Sweeny and F. Pearce. The quintette then drove down Spring street, and stopped for a drink before starting to the dance; stopped again for a drink when across the Buena Vista-street bridge, and then drove directly to the Three-Mile House, along the Southern Pacific track. Everything was quiet at the dance. The crowd was composed for the most part of Mexicans of both sexes. Charlie Glass left the dance and went to a saloon about a quarter of a mile away. "About 1:30 o'clock I said: 'Boys, let us go home.' I then got the team and inquired for Charlie, and one of the boys said he had gone to the saloon. They, that is McMahon, Pearce and Sweeny, got in and I drove down to the saloon. They got out and went into the saloon and took drinks. I did not drink any more, but tried for half an hour or more to get them away from there, but could not. Some of them were willing, but Glass would not come, neither would Sweeny. Finally they got to quarreling with a lot of Mexicans, and one of them had a fight with Sweeny, but neither of them was much hurt. Some of the boys were kicking about losing their hats and three hats were found in my rig. They tried to find the men to whom the hats belonged, as several of the Mexicans did not have any on. Then the whole gang got to quarreling. I drove a short distance from the saloon and looked back. Charlie hit one white man and knocked him down, when a Mexican stepped up and struck two or three of the boys with a beer bottle which he had in his hand. I think he hit Charlie on the forehead. I also saw a man draw a knife, but Charlie grabbed him so as to prevent him from using it. Then the row stopped and they all had drinks together, but talked in a quarrelsome manner. I made another attempt to persuade them to come home, but they would not. I watched two Mexicans quarreling, and about that time I lost sight of Charlie and have never seen him since. I said to Pearce, 'For God's sake get Charlie and let's go home. I have to go to work at 5 o'clock in the morning.' Pearce went to hunt Charlie but could not find him around the saloon. Then he and McMahon and a stranger got candles and looked for him around the saloon and along the grass for about half a block distant. I do not think they crossed the street towards the railroad track. After searching for about half an hour they gave it up until daylight, when McMahon, Pearce and other strangers renewed their search. I brought Sweeny home; he was bleeding quite freely, but was not hurt much. The blood fell on the carpet and cushions. I returned the team to the Empire stables. They said everything was all right, then I went back to Budinger's stable where I washed and went to breakfast, after which I went to work in the barn. After working from 5:30 to 9 o'clock I took a nap, and on awakening at 11:30 p. m. heard that Charlie Glass was dead.

Charles H. Sweeny gave a statement similar in every particular to that of Stevens.

M'MAHON'S STORY.

Eugene McMahon, a native of Malone, Franklin county, N. Y., and 26 years of age, said: "I have been here one year and seven months, and am a hack driver. Last night I was with my hack in front of the Westminster hotel until about 10 o'clock, when I drove to the barn at Budinger's stables. I and a man named Pierce, who worked for Glass, walked out to Main street, near Third, to meet Glass, with whom he had an appointment. He drove up with "Shorty" and Sweeny in a surrey, and we got in. Glass drove us to Kennedy's saloon, on Spring street, "Shorty" holding the team while we got out to drink, and we stopped again at a saloon just across the Buena Vista-street bridge, to get another drink. When we got to the dance we drank beer there, and stayed until about 3 o'clock this morning.

We missed Glass and thinking that he had gone down to the saloon, drove there and found him there. We tried to persuade him to go home, but he insisted upon our having another drink before doing so. While there a rumpus started about hats, and Sweeny said he could lick any man in the crowd that accused him of stealing his hat. Glass evidently misunderstood him, for he took him up and they were going to fight. I told Sweeny to get away from Glass and just then a stranger to our party came up and Glass knocked him down. Charlie Glass then pulled off his coat and threw it down on the ground, but I picked it up and gave it back to him, and we all went back to the saloon and drank three or four times. Then I saw Sweeny get into the surrey and Shorty drove him away. In the meantime Glass had disappeared, and we all started to look for him. After a while a tall, slim Mexican brought in Glass' hat, and said, "I knocked one —— —— into the middle of the street." He had a long-necked glass bottle in his hand. I went out to find my crowd to get them to go home, but we waited until daylight to look again for Charlie. Having seen Frank Pearce go down the track looking for him I supposed he and Charlie had gone home together. I was alone with two men named Stewart and Tom and some half a dozen strangers at daylight, and six of us got into an express wagon and came to town. The expressman drove a team of bays, one of which I wanted him to trade with me, but he didn't want to swap. He and Stewart and myself drove to Budinger's stable, after which we went to breakfast at the Quaker restaurant. I then went back to the stable and loaned Stewart a horse and cart, with which he could drive to Glass' house to see if he got home. I then got out my hack and attended to business."

Franklin Pearce, the other member of the party, told a story similar to that of McMahon. In his account of the fight at the saloon he said: "After several blows had been struck at Glass by the Mexicans, he whirled around and ran under a fence toward the narrow gauge railroad. I heard blows distinctly. Sweeny ran round the buggy moaning and bleeding. We circled round the fences and hollered out to Charlie, but he did not answer, and we could not find him. Clark put a stop to the row by saying: 'Boys, it's no use having any more of this.' I walked along the narrow gauge road until I met a news cart, and I rode into town to the viaduct."

Three more arrests were made during the evening, when Franklin Pearce, F. McElvoy and Stuart Spencer were taken to the County Jail by Captain Darcy and Deputy Sheriffs Captain Lawson and Kearney. As the former had worked for Glass for over a year past, and was one of the party of four who accompanied him to the dance, it was supposed that he knew more of the affair than he cared to tell, but he readily answered the questions propounded by a HERALD reporter who interviewed him at the jail.

Dr. McCarthy, who made the post-mortem examination on the body of deceased, found a contused wound four inches long on the right side of his neck, a cut at the angle of his mouth, the upper eye tooth knocked out, an irregular wound, three and one-half inches long, over the right ear, the frontal bone with a fracture two and one-half inches long and one inch in width, a scalp wound one inch long back of the left eyebrow, a contused wound two inches broad under the right armpit, and three fingers of the right hand crushed and torn. The wounds he says were apparently made with a blunt instrument.

Although a number of theories have been advanced to account for the mysterious murder of Glass, the one which gains most credence with the authorities is that Glass was killed unintentionally in the row outside the saloon, and the murderers, becoming frightened on finding that he was dead, placed him in the surrey and drove to the track, where they laid the corpse across the rails, in the hope that it would not be discovered until after a train had passed over it. The question yet to be solved, however, is as to who struck the blows, from the effect of which Glass came to his death. So far the police and Sheriff's officers are completely baffled, and unless further testimony can be brought to bear from outside sources, the case must continue to remain a mystery, for as yet really nothing is known of the affair beyond the fact that Glass was killed.

Possibly the Coroner's inquest, which will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, may bring forth some new developments.

Topics Discussed in the Churches—Interesting Notes.

Major Hilton addressed large audiences at the First Baptist church yesterday.

Rev. J. W. Chichester, of the Immanuel Presbyterian church, is in San Francisco.

Rev. L. P. Murray delivered the sermon at St. Vincent's church yesterday morning.

Rev. W. A. Knighten spoke on "The Future Glory" at the Grace M. E. church yesterday morning.

Special Thanksgiving services will be held next Thursday morning in nearly all of the churches in the city.

"Blameless Honor" and "The Cause Unknown" were the subjects discussed by Rev. H. M. DuBose at Trinity M. E. church yesterday.

At the East Los Angeles Congregational church, yesterday evening, Rev. J. H. Phillips lectured on the subject, "Did Jesus Ever Laugh."

The "Two-fold Nature of the Old Testament Merrianic Prophecies" was the theme of Dr. Pendleton's discourse yesterday at Opera House hall. The doctor proposes to continue this interesting subject for three or four Sunday evenings. Twenty-five new members were taken into the church.

Rev. R. G. Hutchins, pastor of the First Congregational church, preached an eloquent sermon yesterday on the subject of Thanksgiving. He said that there were perhaps many here who would fail to see that they had reason to be thankful for their experiences in the year past—who had suffered severe reverses in a worldly way, and who had possibly been greatly afflicted in their families. Yet it was through tribulation and suffering that the joys and bliss of a better world were gained, and no matter how we had been chastened in this life, we still owed thanks to the Father for the unspeakably precious gifts he had in reserve for us in the life to come. At the conclusion of his very interesting discourse, he said that the new seats in the church had not been paid for, and he proposed that their cost ($2,600) should be raised there and then. The church is finely seated with opera chairs that cost, set up, $2.50 each. He commenced by calling upon those who would pay for fifty seats, for forty seats and so on down to two seats. Subscriptions for the entire amount were received in a very short time.

Thrown Over.

Yesterday afternoon a number of "sports" went out to a field near the Agricultural Park to witness a seventy-five yard race between J. Phillips, of San Bernardino, and P. White, of San Diego, for $1,000. There was a good sprinkling of San Bernardino "sports," among the crowd, and it was evident from their eagerness to lay odds on their sprinter that victory was assured to their side. A large amount of money was laid on the respective champions, and Colonel Ross having been appointed judge and Frank Rodman time-keeper, the men were sent away to a capital start. White, however, led all the way, and in the moderate time of 10 seconds won by a foot and a half. When it is stated that "Phillips" was the only Harry Bethune, and that his San Bernardino friends came up here knowingly intent on cleaning out the backers of his opponent, but little reference need be had to their feelings on being thrown over; but there was not one amongst the crowd but returned home a sadder but a wiser man.

THE DOUBLE STANDARD.

Coinage of the Silver Dollar and Increase of National Bank Circulation.

The letter given below was written by John Thompson, Vice-President of the Chase National Bank of New York City, and appeared in a recent number of the American Banker. In view of the National Silver Convention which assembles in St. Louis tomorrow, and of the intrinsic importance of the subject as well as the special interest this section has in the double standard the letter has much significance:

MR. PRESIDENT AND DELEGATES OF THE AMERICAN BANKERS' ASSOCIATION — I present for the action of the convention the following resolution, which I will ask to have read by the Secretary:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the American Bankers' Association that Congress should make it obligatory upon the Secretary of the Treasury to coin standard silver dollars to the maximum amount now authorized by the act of February 14, 1878, viz: $4,000,000 worth of silver dollars per month.

Resolved, That Congress be requested to authorize the issue of national bank notes, redeemable in standard silver dollars or silver certificates, making them a preferred claim on the general assets of the bank—to an amount not to exceed fifty per cent. of the paid in capital of the bank issuing them, and making such certificates a legal tender.

Resolved, That Congress authorize the President of the United States to enter into diplomatic relations with the nations of Europe, and with Mexico and the nations of South America, and call a conference to consider a plan for the free coinage of full legal tender silver and full value subsidiary coin, at the mints of the several nations at a fixed and uniform relation of value of silver to gold.

In speaking of these resolutions, I hesitate somewhat to go over ground that has so frequently been traveled, and to have to reiterate arguments repeated so often heretofore as to seem wearisome. I deem the resolutions of so much importance, that I must task your patience. I have for many years seen the intimate relation that exists between the currency of a country and its business prosperity. I have known the evils both of a redundant and a too contracted circulating medium. The resources of the United States have been developed as its population has advanced. We are accustomed to point with pride to the enormous increase of the aggregate wealth of the country within the last twenty-five years; but this increase in aggregate wealth does not necessarily indicate a proportionate increase in individual prosperity. In fact, individual wealth has not increased in the proportion indicated by the aggregate wealth, and therefore, trouble arises. There are contests between labor and capital. There is outcry at corporations and trusts. There is danger in concentrated wealth. Money is the instrument by which the business of the country is carried on. It is a measure of value. A great proportion of the difficulty in finding the solution of the social problems of the present day is due to the demonetization of silver as a money standard. Commodities are said to vary in value or price, according to the supply or demand of those commodities. But there is a still more important cause of variations in price, and that is the fluctuation in the value of money itself. The financial world and its machinery is today so easily controlled by quick methods of communicating information, that money can be made scarce by artificial methods, thus dominating the prices of all other commodities. This ability to control money gives it an undue influence over prices that a measure of values and means of exchange should not have. Of the artificial methods of increasing the value of money and depreciating the prices of all other commodities, the worst ever used has been the demonetization of silver in 1873 by the mints of the United States and the Latin Union. In the United States, at that time, no metallic money was in circulation, as specie payments had not been resumed. Silver throughout the world then, and for centuries previously, stood to gold in the relation of 15½ to 1. The silver dollar of the United States being coined at a relation of 16 to 1 was worth about three cents more than the gold dollar, and was then consequently out of circulation. There is nothing in the production of silver since 1873, although it has somewhat increased, to prove that silver would not have maintained its old relation to gold if its coinage had not been discontinued. In fact, it is generally admitted that the discontinuance of its use as money has been the important factor in putting down the price of silver and consequently causing the depreciation in value of all other commodities. It has become a commodity, and like other commodities has felt the squeezing influence of gold, the only remaining money, growing more and more precious.

This effect of taking the world's stock of money, and dividing it into halves, throwing one-half, and that the most useful, into the general sea of commodities, has been to almost double the value of the half still retained. Like the books of the Sibyl the half that is left doubles in value. The half that remains lends itself to the purposes of those who control it more readily than the whole stock that previously existed. The disastrous curtailing of the currency of the world was not felt so seriously in the United States as it would have been if our paper currency had not been somewhat excessive. Congress, moreover, was wise, and in 1878 authorized a limited coinage of the standard silver dollar and the issue of silver certificates. With the resumption of specie payments, began an era of contraction, not perhaps shown by the aggregate figures of the outstanding currency, but by the disproportion between the increase of the currency and the business of the country. The latter has augmented out of all proportion to the growth of our aggregate circulating medium. Of the mass of gold in the country obtained since resumption some two hundred millions of dollars is kept in the Treasury, and is virtually no part of the working currency. It is only drawn out as it is needed for foreign shipment. Our working currency consists of legal tender notes, national bank notes and silver certificates. The latter do not increase as fast as national bank notes are retired. It, therefore, may truthfully be said that the stock of currency—the currency that does the work of the country—is slowly but surely diminishing, while the business demands upon it are constantly increasing. There have thus been two influences at work tending to increase the measuring power of money in the United States, and the depreciation of property. One, the general effect of the demonetization of silver, and the other, the contraction of the particular kind of currency used here. While our dollars are of silver, and the silver certificates are based upon them, both these dollars and their representatives have been restricted in amount and kept on a gold basis, by the policy that has favored the gold mono-metallic standard.

There are two things that are looked upon as necessary by those who seek to restore money to its true place as a measure of value. First, to restore the bi-metallic standard of gold and silver, and, second, to increase the volume of the immediate forms of currency used in the United States. As a step to the first, I have introduced my first and second resolutions, previously read. In reference to the first I wish to call the attention of the association to the following points, which, in the confusing controversy on the silver question, seem to be agreed to:

1st. That silver and gold were kept at a nearly uniform relation of value by free coinage of both metals at the mints of the Latin Union and the United States prior to 1873.

2d. That the cessation of this free coinage caused the gold price of silver bullion to sink from about $1.30 to 92½ cents per ounce.

3d. That if it had not been for the act of February 14, 1878, authorizing since that date the coinage of not less than $2,000,000 (gold) or more than $4,000,000 (gold) worth of silver dollars per month, the gold price of silver bullion would have gone much lower. In other words, the coinage of the minimum amount of silver dollars has measurably suspended the gold price of silver bullion.

4th. That if the act of 1878 were repealed, and the coinage of silver dollars were to cease, the gold price of silver bullion would sink from 92 cents to about 67 cents per ounce. This was admitted by gold mono-metallic witnesses before the Royal Commission in England. If it be admitted that the coinage of 2,000,000 (gold) dollars worth of silver bullion into standard silver dollars per month, has sustained the gold price of silver twenty-five cents per ounce, would not doubling the coinage as is called for by this resolution raise the price of silver?

This resolution, therefore, aims to accomplish two things; first, to show that the full and fair use of the silver dollar coinage act of 1878 would show that it only needs a slight additional use of silver to raise its bullion price. The Secretary of the Treasury has never tried the experiment, which, if tried for a short time, would set at rest many of the accepted fallacies in regard to silver. Second, the resolution, if carried into effect by Congress, would give at once a much needed addition to our currency. It certainly can do no harm to have the experiment of coining $4,000,000 (gold) worth of silver dollars per month tried for a time. If it did not, as I confidently believe, accomplish a beneficial result, and show how easy it is to stop the depreciation of prices, the additional coinage might cease. But even this increased coinage of silver proposed by the first resolution will not give us the currency we need. Remember, it will only make a net addition of about $1,000,000 per month after allowing for the present rate of reduction of national bank currency—(viz, about $3,000,000 per month). I, therefore, am in favor of any safe and feasible plan for increasing the circulation of our national banks. I believe a good bank currency is the best paper currency that can be had. It is locally more elastic than any other, as it is issued at once in the places where it is most needed. I would be in favor of an additional percentage of issue on the bonds deposited by the banks with the Treasurer, or of issuing bonds at lower rates of interest to the banks as a basis of circulation. These, owing to the rapid payment of the debt, are only temporary expedients, which may result in rapid contraction at some future time, as the debt is paid. While advocating them, however, as temporary measures, I prefer a more radical plan, which I deem to have been shown by the experience with our national banks to be perfectly safe, viz., the plan proposed in my second resolution.

A circulation based on the general assets of a bank and constituted by law a preferred claim on those assets, when limited to fifty per cent. paid-in capital, is, in my opinion, with the safeguards, other than bond deposit, that exist in our national banking system, perfectly safe. The notes being registered and issued under the eye of the Treasury Department, there could not be over-issues, as there were under the State banking systems of the past, and the aggregate could always be controlled by Congress and known to the public. This privilege and the abrogation of the requirement of a bond deposit, would attract to the system a large part of the State banks of the country, as they would have the prestige of national banks without the loss that now ensues from the deposit of expensive bonds, which is greater than the profit on the circulation taken out. The system would, by the legalizing of this resolution, be a vehicle of furnishing a perfectly safe circulation, and would be much more popular than it is at present.

My third resolution is proposed to indicate a practical way of settling the question of bi-metallism. It is the fashion to say that nothing can be done to rehabilitate silver unless the consent of other nations is obtained. I believe that an initiatory step on our part is all that is necessary to re-establish the bi-metallic standard throughout the world. An increased coinage of silver by the United States, as allowed by present law, if the Secretary of the Treasury would only exercise his discretion sufficiently, would, in my opinion, make such a revolution as to open the eyes of many who harp on the necessity of international agreements before anything can be done. But if an agreement is thought to be necessary, let this association put itself on record by adopting my resolutions. I believe the United States, by authorizing an increased coinage of standard silver dollars, will give the impulse which alone is necessary to restore it to its former place as a standard of value; but this third resolution indicates our willingness to join with other nations to the same desirable end. I, therefore, in conclusion, now move that these resolutions be referred to the Executive Council for immediate report to the convention.

TRADE S.S.S. MARK

Mrs. Geo. P. Smoote, a highly cultivated and estimable lady of Prescott, Ark., writes under date of April 22,'89: "During the summer of 1887 my eyes became inflamed, and my stomach and liver hopelessly disordered. Nothing I ate agreed with me. I took chronic diarrhœa, and for some time my life was despaired of by my family. The leading physicians of the country were consulted, but the medicines administered by them never did me any permanent good, and I lingered between life and death, the latter being preferable to the agonies I was enduring. In May, 1888, I became disgusted with physicians and their medicines. I dropped them all and depended solely on Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), a few bottles of which made me permently well—well from then until now."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Notes of the Plays and Those Who Present Them.

Miss Lillian Lewis will visit Los Angeles in the near future.

Mrs. Potter is thinking great, deep, black thinks, for she has heard that Mrs. Langtry intends to play Antony and Cleopatra.

The opening opera tonight at the Grand is Von Suppe's Trip to Africa. The story as told in this opera is bright and humorous.

In Melbourne special policemen are detailed every night to visit the theaters and music halls before the audience is admitted to see that all means of exit are free and unobstructed.

Mignon has just had its 839th performance at the Paris Opéra Comique, Carmen its 300th, Le Roi d'Ys its 116th, and Esclarmonde its 58th. The latter opera was only produced last spring.

It is now announced that Mrs. James Brown Potter expects to act in London this season after all, and that she was a competitor against Mrs. Langtry for the control of the St. James' theater.

It is said, over the cables, that Kyrle Bellew has been engaged to support Grace Hawthorne in Theodora at the Princess theater, London. If this be true where is Kyrle's late Cleopatra?

M. Strakosch has contracted with Mme. Arnoldson Rossignol for fifty appearances in America at $50,000. Concert-goers will undoubtedly be compelled to go down deeply into their "weazel-skins," when this vocalist makes her tour.

Miss Margaret Mather will not be managed by Messrs. Gilmore and Tompkins next season. This is not because Messrs. Gilmore and Tompkins do not want to manage her, but because the lady's husband, Emil Haberkarn, thinks that he is qualified to manage her business himself.

It is perhaps worthy of notice that the two young singers who now attract most attention in England and France are from California. Miss Sybil Sanderson is still in her glory, and Miss Josephine Simon in a quieter way is reaping a rich return and paving the way for a brilliant future.

Many English actresses have made aristocratic marriages since 1800. Harriet Mellon married the ninth duke of St. Albans; Kitty Stephens, the fifth earl of Essex; Eliza Farran, the twelfth earl of Derby; Louise Brunton, the first earl of Craven, and Maria Foote, the third earl of Harrington. Besides these the beautiful Miss O'Neill became Lady Becher; Mrs. Nesbitt, Lady Boothby, and Helen Faucit, Lady Martin.

The first comic opera of the season will be at the Grand opera house tonight. The company which appears here has been organized by Mr. Duff for a special engagement at the Baldwin theater, San Francisco, and on the Coast. Theater-goers may look forward to fine performances of Trip to Africa and Paola. The sale of seats indicates that there will be large audiences at every performance.

Here are some items about Richard Mansfield and his company: The version of Richard III that he uses is Shakspeare, condensed, and not Cibber's. His performances begin at 7:45, so that people can reach home before the milk-wagons come around. Special music has been written for the tragedy by Edward German, and it will be played by an orchestra of twenty-seven pieces. There are ninety-three people in the company.

Ten years ago, while passing through Stratford-on-Avon, Mr. Toole, the English comedian, saw a rustic sitting on a fence. "That's Shakspeare's house, isn't it?" he asked, pointing to the building. "Yes." "Ever been there?" "No." "How long has he been dead?" "Don't know." "Brought up here?" "Yes." "Did he write anything like the Family Herald, or anything of that sort?" "Oh, yes, he writ." "What was it?" "Well," said the rustic, "I think he wrote for the bible."—[Stage.

The latest news from abroad in relation to Mme. Patti is to the effect that the renowned prima donna has been transformed from a brunette into a blonde by a liberal application of an auricome fluid of some sort or other. The impression produced by Mme. Patti's appearance at a recent concert in London, with her once ebon tresses changed to locks of a golden hue is described as somewhat startling, but not exactly impressive, and her friends here express the hope that the songstress' hair will take on its natural color before she returns to the United States.—[New York Sun.

Paola will be given for the first time on Thursday night. This opera, by the authors of Erminie (Paulton and Jakobowski), is likely to become a worthy successor to that vastly popular work. The plot is based upon a very old and time-honored vendetta, which lands the two heroes, who have been away getting educated, in a number of difficulties from the moment they step upon their native Corsican beach. The first scene is laid in a Corsican seaport town, where the reopening of the vendetta is inaugurated. The second and last scene opens among the Corsican mountains, where the vendetta is quietly laid at rest and all are made happy.

While there is opera at one house, romantic drama will be given at the other, a happy opposition, and doubtless Frank Mayo will receive his share of favor and patronage at the Los Angeles theater. The arrival of Davy Crockett will also be an event that will be received with pleasure. Mr. Mayo has made fame and fortune with his evergreen play, as he calls it. As far back as twenty years Mayo was the favorite of San Francisco, and the people of the Coast have never failed to accord him a hearty welcome. The engagement will commence Wednesday with Davy Crockett, to be followed by Nordeck Friday and Saturday, terminating Sunday with Crockett. Mr. Mayo's son, Edwin F., is in the company and will play "Prince Leo," the half-brother of "Waldemar Nordeck."

NEWS OF THE RAIL.

Visiting Officials—An Excursion of Grocers.

The Government Commissioners of the Union Pacific spent yesterday in Santa Barbara, and went north from Saugus on the Southern Pacific yesterday evening. They got into Los Angeles Saturday afternoon at 4:20 and spent the afternoon and evening here. They left at 11 p. m. for Santa Barbara. The Commissioners are: Judge Savage, of Omaha, appointed by President Cleveland, and ex-Governor Bullock, of Georgia, G. M. Leighton, of St. Louis, Judge Spalding, of Chicago, and Hon. J. Plummer, of New York.

The Vanderbilt party of railroad officials, who have been spending the last few days in San Diego, will return to Los Angeles this morning. They will get into the city at 8:15 a. m.

The San Francisco Bulletin thinks that San Francisco will be included in the future movements of the Union Pacific. It says in a recent issue:

The Boston dispatches tell of the determination of the Union Pacific to build into Southern California by way of Milford on the Utah Central and Pioche, Nev. The fact that contracts have been let for building the piece of road between the points named and an outline of the route southerly to Barstow were published in this journal some time ago. It is the prediction of wise railway men that the Union Pacific, with the ambitious plans of its present managers, will not rest with Los Angeles as its Pacific terminus, but will, by some of the many routes already surveyed, before many years have passed, send its trains into this city.

A number of eastern grocers propose to visit California this winter in a special party which has been organized by Benjamin Johnson, the editor of the New England Grocer. He writes that they will leave Boston next February. "The party will be composed of business men who handle large quantities of green and dried fruits and canned goods of the Pacific Coast. The Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange is taking a lively interest in the project, and its membership will be represented in the party. This excursion is in the nature of an educator to all participants, and is not in any sense a money-making scheme." As at present arranged, the party will enter California at the extreme southeastern corner of the State, and visit Colton, Riverside, San Diego, Los Angeles, Tulare, Fresno, Madera, Merced, Modesto, Lathrop, San Francisco, Sacramento, Marysville, Redding, and returning by way of the Northern Pacific. George W. Meade and other local merchants are interesting themselves to arrange entertainment for the visitors. It is suggested that citizens of points to be visited, as above noted, make necessary preparations to receive the party, whose visit cannot but be of advantage to local producers and dealers.

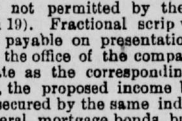

The reorganization of the Santa Fe system is progressing in a very satisfactory fashion, and it appears now quite certain that the road will pull out of the financial difficulties in which it has been involved.

The following official statement, which is intended to meet the objections to the reorganization plan, has been issued from the Boston office: First, the principal and interest of both the general mortgage and income bonds proposed to be issued under the organization plan are payable in gold, and both classes are to be issued in pieces, $500 and $1,000. The bond scrip necessarily issued in making exchanges will provide the small pieces required by the smaller investors, and the issue of bonds for a less sum than $500 is not permitted by the charter (section 19). Fractional scrip will carry interest payable on presentation of the scrip at the office of the company at the same rate as the corresponding bonds. Second, the proposed income bonds are to be secured by the same indenture as the general mortgage bonds, but subject to the priority, both as to security and lien, and as to the payment of both principal and interest of the general mortgage bonds, thus preventing the interventien of any other lien between the general mortgage and income bonds. Third, the first determination of the surplus earnings applicable to the income bonds will be made for the period ending June 25, 1890. Fourth, with reference to the proposal to give voting power to bonds, pending the payment of interest upon the income bonds, reference should be made to section 6 of the charter, which provides that the board of directors shall be chosen by the stockholders, and in the absence of express statutory authority from the State of Kansas, the voting power proposed cannot be given to the bonds. Fifth, a conversion of the income bonds into stock at any time at the option of the holders would result in the increase of the capital stock of the company, which cannot legally be done without the assent of the present stockholders.

The Salt Lake Tribune has this to say concerning the work now in progress on the Utah Central extension: "Half a dozen contractors are going over the line between Milford and Pioche so as to figure on their bids, and the same is being done between Ogden and McCammon. Then when the bids are awarded active work begins. The new line north will run to Logan, but ere long there will be a cut-off for through trains. Were Logan to be left on a siding, it is claimed that real estate would depreciate 50 per cent. Considerable winter work in the way of rock cutting will be done in the upper country, but not much dirt handling until spring. On the southern desert, however, it is thought that grades can be made without any difficulty to speak of during December and January."

The Union Pacific is reported to be "literally submerged with traffic," its motive power and equipment being entirely inadequate to the present demand. Several other roads just now are experiencing the same embarrassment, which, however, is in no danger of being permanent.

W. C. Farnsworth, of the Mechanics' Mill, this city, has had his hearing completely restored by Dr. S. M. Slocum, the aurist, corner of Fifth and Main. Mr. Farnsworth has been afflicted with deafness since childhood.

IMPORTANT
—AND—
Worth : Investigation.
We are making suits to order of the fine Huddersfield Worsteds for $25 which are worth $40. As the sale of these fine worsteds during the past three weeks has proved such an immense success in San Francisco, we concluded to give the benefit to the public of Los Angeles. We have purchased $40,000 worth of these Huddersfield worsteds and have added a large line of Kerseys and Meltons for overcoats, made to order, with fine silk linings, for $25 to $30, which would cost elsewhere at least from $40 to $60. We have received from the mill over 40 pieces of fine Trouserings, which we bought at an immense reduction, and we are now prepared to give our customers and the public the benefit. These are fine ALL WOOL goods at prices never before known in Los Angeles. Please call and examine the goods and be convinced of the bargains now offered for the holidays.

The Silver Convention.

Tomorrow the Silver Convention will assemble in St. Louis. It is really called pursuant to an exigent demand from the people of the United States to right the great wrong which was perpetrated by the surreptitious introduction, in 1873, in the Revised Statutes of the United States, of the law demonetizing silver, which really failed to pass the Congress of the United States, although it did all the evil that an authenticated law could have done. From the date of the passage of that law the whole people, not only of the United States but of the world, have suffered depression and curtailment of trade. Enterprise has been arrested, and the debtor classes have since, day by day, felt their burdens increasing.

As the silver question stands today there is great hope of remedial legislation. England even, the great creditor nation, shows, in many of her representative financiers, that silver ought to be restored to its old relation to gold. Germany, outside of the immediate circle of Prince Bismarck, feels the same wholesome impulse towards remonetization. France and the Latin nations have the same conviction—although that is, as respects these latter nations, simply a continuation of their old time beliefs.

The great gain, in the silver proposition, is the marked revolution which has taken place in its favor amongst the people of the United States. The steadily contracting volume of the national bank circulation, together with the rapid transit of gold to Europe during the past twelvemonth, has made it apparent to all people patriotically inclined that the currency must be expanded in some shape or national syncope would supervene. With a vastly expanded population in the United States since the close of the war, we have a vastly decreased circulating medium. As a result, we have had depression in business, suspended enterprise; and, twice within the past three years, we have been on the verge of a panic—a panic which has only been averted by liberal sales of government bonds, thus easing the market to that extent.

As the question now stands, under the Bland bill, the Secretary of the Treasury can buy monthly, for the purposes of coinage, from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000. All the previous Secretaries of the Treasury, barring none—they have all been Eastern men, in both parties, and responsive to the suggestions of Wall street—have leaned invariably to the minimum rather than to the maximum figure authorized by the law. This invidious preference has practically existed since the bill was framed. But, hostilely interpreted as it was, it has kept the silver industry alive, though in a sort of perfunctory fashion.

The situation which confronts us just now is one in which iron and silver are both rising, and this circumstance is highly encouraging for the future both of the United States and of mankind. As we have frequently shown, in previous articles in the HERALD, the price of iron is the real commercial barometer of the world's commerce. If we can add to this gratifying auspice of coming prosperity the genuine remonetization of silver—or can point to steps under the authorization of the government of the United States decisively pointing to that result in the near future—the financial and industrial millenium is not far off.

The St. Louis Silver Convention will doubtless demand the free coinage of silver, and why should it not? Until the discovery of gold in California and Australia—almost coincident results—silver was an equally favored metal with gold in the financial transactions of the world, and the cheapness of gold, resulting from the plethoric production of that metal, soon gave silver the preference. Silver coin was, during all the days of early settlement in the great West the favorite coinage. It was known amongst the early settlers as "land office money." In the days of "wildcat" banks the man who could show up with the gleaming silver shekels was the man whom the Land Office officials delighted to see, and they seldom recognized any other, for gold was scarce as hen's teeth, and the issues of the "wildcat" banks were only seen to be distrusted.

With silver once again honestly remonetized—and with a Congress and Secretary of the Treasury honestly committed to its being regarded as honest money—and with iron advancing steadily in price, there be gala days ahead, not only in the United States but all over the world. The initiative of this country will be respected.

THE specimens of ores which are coming into Los Angeles of late are confirmatory of the HERALD'S frequently reiterated theory of a great mining boom being imminent for Southern California, and, in fact, for California at large. The agitation of the extension to Los Angeles of the Salt Lake Railway, and on reliable information, is bringing to light the experiences of many prospectors of both the base and precious metals within a very easy reach of the new transportation line. With the oil produced from our petroleum wells, and cheap coal from Southwestern Utah, the day is not distant when Los Angeles, in addition to being a transcontinental and international point of great commercial importance, will also be a leading smelting and manufacturing center.

Building a Railroad on Paper.

The fact that the Union Pacific has determined to reach this coast by the extension of the Utah Southern to Los Angeles greatly exercises some of the San Francisco newspapers. They are envious of the consideration and importance which Southern California is achieving abroad, and are sore over the fact that the terminal difficulties of their city and its disadvantageous situation to an overland road seeking entrance into the State, should cause preference to be given to an easy and practicable route to a point where terminal advantages are not only superior, but have already been secured. They refuse to believe the official reports, and have conjured up imaginary railroad information which assures them that the extension is to be direct to San Francisco instead of to Los Angeles. It requires imagination as well as gall to deflect a railroad route starting from Pioche to that city, and to pronounce it not only feasible but the best route. Let us see how these papers whistle to keep their courage up. Says one of them, "on reliable private information," the road will start at North Beach in San Francisco, run along the coast to Santa Cruz, thence across the Coast range south of Gilroy, across the Sierra Nevada by the Tuolumne Meadows Pass, and thence into Southern Nevada to Pioche. That is a very fine paper route; but practical railroad men have already shown their lack of appreciation of it. The Southern Pacific railroad was first laid out to cross the Coast range about on that route. But instead of facing the formidable work of cutting a road through the Panoche mountains from Gilroy to Goshen, they have left that gap unconnected down to this day, and have preferred to run their road down the coast rather than cross over into San Joaquin valley at the line originally designated in their charter. The gap between the two spurs of road at Hollister on the west side and Lemoore on the east side of the Coast range marks ninety miles of mountain which even the great road builders of this State refused to confront, and that too at the risk of imperiling their valuable land grant. We will not say that the road through the Tuolumne Meadows Pass cannot be built. Money will build a road almost anywhere, as we have seen by what was done by the Central Pacific. But at this day, when roads are built without land or money subsidies, and as commercial propositions only, we shall see no more experiments like that of forcing a road over stupendous mountain ranges when there are easier and infinitely less expensive routes available. The route selected by the Union Pacific from Pioche to Los Angeles is a short and easy one. The difficult portion of it into the Los Angeles valley via the Cajon Pass, is already railed and in operation, and the Union Pacific has perfected arrangements to strengthen the road through this pass with bridges and substantial improvements, and to run over it in connection with the Santa Fe Company. Thus we see that the most difficult portion of the road from Los Angeles to Pioche is already built and in operation, whilst two very formidable and difficult mountain ranges are to be overcome before a road from San Francisco could reach Carson valley, whilst from that point to Pioche a detour south of several hundred miles must be made or the engineers will be compelled to face another very heavy piece of work through the Carson mountains.

Our San Francisco friends need exercise themselves no further. The people who are about to build the extension to this city have fully informed themselves of the advantages of the route they have selected over any possible one to the north of it, and will carry out their plans.

The Rehabilitation of the Navy.

The reports from the heads of the Navy Departments this year show that good progress has been made in the building up of the new fleet of warships constructed on modern principles. The old wooden vessels will soon pass away. Those that are still seaworthy may be made available for transports or for light coast duty and in the islands of the Pacific. But for real war service, hereafter only steel-clad ships, of great speed and powerful armament, will be used. With the completion of the vessels now in course of construction and appropriated for, the United States will possess ten armored vessels, thirteen single-turreted monitors, twenty-one steel cruisers, one practice cruiser for cadets, one armored ram, one first-class torpedo boat and seven iron steamers. This list of itself comprises a tolerably good-sized navy, and compared with the inefficient and rotten fleet we had, after spending hundreds of millions during the era when the Robesons and their peculiar methods were in vogue, it is as a frigate is to a periangua. The incoming Congress will be called upon to make appropriations to continue the work of increasing our fleet of modern war vessels until we shall have one able to compete with that of any of the great naval powers of the world.

The Democrats may contemplate with pride the magnificent results in this respect of a single Democratic administration. Up to the time that Cleveland became President and Mr. Whitney was placed at the head of the Navy Department, our navy was a disgrace to the country, and a scorn and a by-word on every foreign lip. Mr. Whitney—a man of great force, energy and intellectual power—addressed himself to the building up of a new navy. Successive Republican administrations had got away with the enormous appropriations of successive Congresses, but it remained for a Democratic administration, with an honest and capable Democratic Secretary, to relieve the country from the stigma that had adhered to it on this score for years. The fruits of Mr. Whitney's honest and intelligent efforts are now materializing in the shape of a fleet of steel war vessels that will be equal to all demands upon them, whether in peace or war. The Democrats have shown the Republicans how to build a navy. If the latter will follow along the path laid out for them, we shall again see the American flag waving proudly on every sea, and be in position to enforce our rights and protect American citizens and American commerce in all parts of the world.

Alhambra.

EDITORS HERALD—Tuesday night the Hotel Alhambra presented a brilliant spectacle. Bright lights beamed from every window from the tower to the ground, the occasion being the formal opening of the hotel by the new proprietor, Mr. Crank, of Davenport, Iowa. Skillful hands had transformed the large dining-room into a model of artistic taste and flowery loveliness, palms and ivy contrasting most pleasingly with the brilliant-hued roses. The large porch on the east side was enclosed with canvas, and handsomely decorated with palms, smilax and roses. Here the elegant supper was served.

The guests began to arrive at 8 o'clock, and in a short time the attendance numbered fully 150, among whom were many prominent society people of Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Gabriel and other towns. The evening passed most pleasantly, and after partaking of refreshments the guests repaired to the dining-room, where to the strains of Dohs' orchestra they tripped the light fantastic till the approach of the coming dawn, when one and all departed for their several homes, with many wishes of long life and prosperity to mine host Crank for the royal way in which they had been entertained.

Mr. M. Goff, formerly a resident of Alhambra, but now of Denver, Colorado, is here on business for a short stay.

The dedication of the Baptist church took place last Sunday, the dedicatory sermon being preached by Rev. Mr. Frost, of Iowa. This organization started out a little over a year ago with about a dozen members, and has grown so rapidly that now they have been able to build a church costing several thousand dollars, and dedicate it free from debt. The Rev. Mr. Reed, an Evangelist, has been holding a series of revival meetings there for the past two weeks with marked success.

Dr. T. D. Kellogg and family have moved into the Goff building, opposite the hotel.

Mr. Creamer and wife have also moved into their fine new residence at Ramona.

B. S. Stoneman, of Los Angeles, was a visitor in Alhambra yesterday.

Miss Daisy Rose, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fargo, returned to her home in Los Angeles last Friday.

TRAIN HELD UP.

Bold Work of Two Robbers in Indian Territory.

KANSAS CITY, November 24.—The north-bound passenger train on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas was held up tonight near Perry station, Indian Territory. The express and mail cars were robbed. The passengers were not molested. The amount secured by the robbers is unknown.

The train was the daily M. K. & T. mail and express. At Pryor creek two armed white men, unmasked, forced the engineer and fireman to descend from the cab. The station consists of not much more than a water tank and tool house, and there was no one to interfere with the robbers' work. The robbers proceeded to the mail car where they intimidated the mail agents, and rifled the pouches of their valuable contents. The robbers next directed their attention to the express car. There also the agent was intimidated by threats, and the safe was emptied of its treasures, valued at several thousand dollars. The value of the matter stolen from the mails is not known. Passengers were unmolested.

HARD ON FIREMEN.

Burning Pepper and Mustard Blinds the Gallant Laddies.

PHILADELPHIA, November 24.—The wholesale grocery house of Janney & Andrews was burned this morning, causing the loss of $25,000. Burning pepper and mustard sent up fumes which greatly interfered with the work of the firemen, and five of them are in the hospital being treated for partial blindness. During the fire one of the walls fell, catching eight firemen. James McCuen was fatally injured. Another man had an arm broken, while the remainder escaped with slight injuries. A wool warehouse next door sustained considerable damage by water.

THE PILGRIM GRANGERS.

They Get Around to Santa Rosa on Sunday.

SANTA ROSA, November 24.—The delegates to the National Grange arrived here today from Sacramento, over one hundred in all. A large number of citizens met the visitors at the depot and accompanied them to a hall, where a reception was tendered them.

A Murderer Lynched.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., November 24.—Information has been received to the effect that Joseph A. Smith, the man who killed W. T. Williams, the Town Marshal of Trenton, two weeks ago, was taken from jail at Elkton, the county seat of Todd county, last night, by a mob, and hanged to a tree in the courthouse yard.

Last Week's Exchanges.

BOSTON, November 24.—A table compiled from dispatches from the leading clearing houses of the United States shows that the total gross exchanges for the week ending November 23d were $1,229,605,265, an increase of 16.6 per cent. as compared with the corresponding week last year.

Fatal Misunderstanding of Orders.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., November 24.—By a misunderstanding of train orders, two freight trains collided on the Nickel Plate near Argos, Indiana, at a late hour last night. Engineer Wilson was killed, Fireman Perequay fatally injured, and three other train employees fatally injured.

Honest but Not Courageous.

PITTSBURG, November 24.—Cashier Hoerr, who had been missing since the failure of the Lawrence Bank, has returned home. Not having the courage to meet the depositors after the suspension, he went to Butler, Pa., where he had been ever since. His honesty has never been questioned.

Arrested for Robbery.

MILWAUKEE, November 24.—Several months ago the Iron Exchange Bank at Hurley was robbed of $40,000 put into its vault by the American Express Company. Today Assistant Cashier Perrin and a man named Baker, from Ironwood, were arrested and charged with connection with the robbery. Perrin denied being concerned in the robbery.

WASHINGTON WIRINGS.

Secretary Proctor's Forthcoming Report.

THE NEEDS OF THE ARMY TOLD.

Facts About the Postal Service—The Republic of Brazil Given the Church's Blessing.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

WASHINGTON, November 24.—The annual report of the Secretary of War shows that the expenditures and appropriations for the past fiscal year were $46,654,121; the appropriations for the current fiscal year are $33,989,790. The difference is due mainly to the reduction of the appropriations for public works, including rivers and harbors. The estimates for the next fiscal year are $44,157,973, of which over eleven million dollars is for public works.

The Secretary concurs in the recommendation of the Major-General commanding for the reorganization of the ratillery, making seven regiments instead of five, and dropping the additional first lieutenants; also the formation of the infantry regiments into three battalions each.

Referring to the retired list, the Secretary calls attention to the fact that now forty-eight officers are incapacitated who cannot be placed on the limited retired list, which is full. The Secretary recommends that the list be extended to 450, or that a special act be enacted authorizing the retirement of fifty officers.

On the subject of desertions the Secretary summarizes the reports given heretofore in these dispatches. He calls attention to the fact that desertion from colored regiments the past year was only 2 per cent, as against from 12 to 27 from white regiments. Investigation does not disclose that ill treatment prevails to any appreciable extent. The employment of enlisted men in ordinary labor cannot be wholly removed, but recruits should be made fully acquainted with its existence. Unnecessary restraint should be removed, and the soldier's life in the post be made pleasant and comfortable.

Great care should be exercised in recruiting, and it is a question whether locating recruiting officers in or near large cities secures the best material. The subject of regimental recruiting is now being experimented in New York. The pith of the whole question is to make the service worth seeking, and then enough good men will seek and stay in it. There is now little incentive for young and intelligent men to make a profession of soldiering. The hope of achieving a commission is but slight, and the distance between the highest grade of non commissioned officers and commissioned officers is far too great, in the Secretary's judgment.

He submits a number of recommendations, among which are the following: Make the pay of non-commissioned officers — infantry, cavalry and artillery — the same as engineers. More bright, ambitious young men might be thus induced to enter the service. Give the soldier an opportunity to so improve himself that when he leaves the service he may be better fitted for civil life than when he entered it. Post schools should be established. Authorize re-enlistment for one or more years at the post where the soldier is discharged. Make the code of punishment suited to the times of peace, less arbitrary, but more certain.

The Secretary also calls attention to the recommendations of many officers that the term of enlistments be made three years, with the privilege of purchasing a discharge, etc.

Favorable mention is made of the results of the summer encampment of troops and service schools, and the suggestion is made that a battalion of apprentices might be of assistance to the army as well as to the navy.

The discipline and efficiency of the National Guard is highly commended, and Congress is urged to increase the appropriations therefor.

The Secretary treats the subject of examination for promoting in the army at length, and says the system of competitive examinations now in vogue, with well-defined limitations, is founded on good sense and supported by our own experience as well as that of those countries where the efficiency and standing of the army is held in the highest estimation.

To give many promising young men who have joined the National Guard a chance to gain a commission in the army it would be proper to give recognition and encouragement to that organization.

A strenuous plan should be made for coast defenses. The Secretary says the apparent sense of security among our people is born of thoughtlessness. Although our position and traditions of national diplomacy tend to the maintenance of peace, our defenseless condition will ever invite attack. He submits as a basis to start from that no time be lost to place Washington, New York and at least one port on the Pacific in the best possible state of defense. How rapidly the work shall be carried on until it embraces every important vulnerable point is the only question. In the Secretary's view progress cannot be too rapid.

Special attention is directed to the reports of Generals Schofield and Miles on this subject. Our general prosperity points to the present as an auspicious time to be pressing work, and Congress is urged to make a liberal appropriation. Once built the cost of maintaining a thorough system of defensive works is comparatively small. It will require only $8,000,000 to garrison the defensive works in time of peace. This will be sufficient to care for the armament and serve as a nucleus for the instruction of the militia of the seacoast States, which must be relied on to supply the men needed in war, and which are estimated at 87,000. It is very important that an opportunity for this instruction should be provided at once. This offers to the National Guard of the seaboard States a new and attractive field for drill and study, and it is believed they will take pride in training themselves to man the defensive works of their own ports.

In regard to rivers and harbors, the work performed is mentioned and the suggestion of the chief engineers for further legislation to prevent the obstruction of navigable rivers is presented.

Referring to military law, the Secretary says during the year there were 11,581 cases tried before the inferior courts-martial in the army, whose effective strength is 24,110 men. This proves that there is a vital defect somewhere. A revision of the Articles of War is recommended; also that provision be made for the punishment of minor offences under well-defined restrictions without the intervention of a court-martial.

Attention is called to the report of the Surgeon-General on the unsatisfactory condition of the hospital corps, due chiefly to the inadequacy of the pay, good men refusing to re-enlist. Twenty-four surgeons, 14 per cent. of the whole force, are non-effective on account of sickness or permanent disability.

General Greeley's recommendation that greater attention be given to instruction in military signaling is approved, and the suggestion is made that the same should, if possible, be given the militia to some extent.

Many other department reports are reviewed and suggestions made. The Secretary urges the creation of the office of Assistant Secretary of War.

THE POSTAL SERVICE.

Recommendations for the Extension of the Free Delivery System.

WASHINGTON, November 24.—Second Assistant Postmaster General Whitefield's annual report shows that the annual rate of expenditure for star route service June 30, 1889, was $5,228,387; the number of routes, 15,077; aggregate length, 233,331 miles; appropriation for the last fiscal year, $5,400,000; sum expended, $5,177,195. The report says that there is a decided improvement, competition has become very close, and awards are frequently made at a rate so low as to prevent sub-letting at a profit. The bidder then wilfully fails to assume the service, trusting on an adjustment with the Department to diminish or in some way compromise his financial loss, and thereby measurably avoid the penalties prescribed. Since the beginning of the present contract term, July 1, 1889, such bidders have failed in an unprecedented number, and the seriousness of the matter demands prompt and effectual measures. Contractors who have made low bids frequently award the service to sub-contractors, who undertake it at ruinous rates and without sufficient equipment, and the result in many cases is a correspondingly poor service, leading frequently to persistent efforts by the sub-contractors to better their condition by applications for an increase.

There is another evil in the frequency of the changes of route, schedule, etc., which are almost solely for the benefit of the contractor or sub contractor, and not in the interests of the people. Many instances come to the knowledge of the office where delinquencies are not reported by postmasters, because of a desire to add no more to the already heavy burden of the sub-contractors.

The report recommends the appointment of a commission to carefully consider the matter and recommend needed changes. The appropriation for steamboat service for the current fiscal year is $450,000, while the amount necessary is $525,000. The general tendency, however, is toward a decrease of steamboat service, the rapidly increasing railroad facilities having much to do with this. The annual rate of expenditure for railroad transportation is $19,440,095; number of routes, 2,113; aggregate length, 150,381 miles. The amount estimated necessary for the current fiscal year is $20,000,000.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson in his annual report shows that the whole number of postoffices on June 30, 1889, was 58,999, an increase of 1,623 over the previous year; number of Presidential offices, 2, 684, an increase of 196 The appointments to vacancies caused by removals up to June 30, 1888, amounted to 1,244; to June 30, 1889, 7,853. The number of money order offices in operation at the close of the fiscal year was 8,583, an increase of 472. There were 401 free delivery offices, an increase of 43, and up to November 36 more were added.

The Superintendent of the free delivery service recommends its extension to all places which have a population according to the last legal census of 5,000, or to all postoffices which produced a gross revenue during the preceding fiscal year of at least $8,000. This would embrace all the important postoffices in the second class. The appropriation for this service for the present fiscal year is $8,000,000, and the estimate for the next fiscal year is $9,069,485. A large increase in the number of offices is expected after the census of 1890 is completed.

THE NEW REPUBLIC.

All the Provinces Fall in Line—The Church's Benediction.

WASHINGTON, November 24.—Señor Valente, the Brazilian Minister, this afternoon received a cablegram from Barboza, Minister of Finance, informing him that all the provinces have signified adherence to the republic and the provisional government without any resistance or protest; that the Government has extended the right to vote to all citizens, excepting those unable to read or write, and that the archbishop at the head of the Catholic church in Brazil today conferred his solemn benediction upon the Government and the republic.

Dr. Valente places no credence in the reports from Europe hinting at the instability of the new Government, and the probable breaking up of Brazil into three separate States. He regards the republic as permanent, and that the new Congress which will be elected under the enlarged suffrage proposed by the provisional government, will complete the organization of the new republic in a manner entirely satisfactory to the people of Brazil.

DOUBLE MURDER.

A Man and Wife Shot Down in Cold Blood.

PINE CITY, Minn., November 24.—This afternoon William Brooker and wife were visiting William Coombs' family. After helping Coombs to kill a calf, Brooker began abusing his wife, whose sister, Mrs. Coombs, interfered. Without a word, save a muttered curse, he sent a rifle ball through her neck, killing her instantly. Hearing the noise Coombs rushed up, only to be met with a deadly charge of shot in the abdomen. Both victims died instantly. Brooker and Coombs had married sisters, and the former was insanely jealous. The murderer has been arrested. Excitement runs high.

Forfeited Charters.

KANSAS CITY, November 24.—The Journal's Jefferson City, Mo., special says: The Secretary of State tomorrow will issue a proclamation declaring forfeited the charters of about one thousand Missouri corporations which have failed to comply with the terms of the State anti-trust law.

LIMA, Ohio, November 24.—Colonel Rathbone, of Washington, founder of the order of Knights of Pythias in America, is lying very ill here with small hopes of recovery.

TERRIBLE TALES OF PRIVATION.

Emin Pasha Has Some Stirring History to Communicate. Dr. Peters Safe.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

LONDON, November 24.—A letter from Stanley, dated South End Victoria Nyanza, September 3rd, says in part: "It is amusing to look back and note how punishment has fallen on the rebels of the Emin Government. Traitors without camp and traitors within were watched; the most active conspirator was discovered, tried and hanged. The traitors without fell foul of one another and ruined themselves. Far away our own people, tempted by their own extreme wretchedness and misery, sold our rifles and ammunition to our natural enemies, the Manyema, the slave traders' true friends, without the least grace either of bodies or souls. Since that time of anxiety and unhappy outlook, I have been at the point of death from a dreadful illness. Little by little I gathered strength and finally gave orders for the march for home. Discovery after discovery in this wonderful region was made until at last we came to a church whose cross denoted a Christian settlement, and we knew we had reached the outskirts of blessed civilization."

MacKinnon, Chairman of the Emin Relief Committee, also received a letter from Stanley dated August 5th, in which Stanley, after describing how he hunted up his missing rear column, continues: "The rear column was in a deplorable state. Out of 102 members remaining, I doubted whether fifty would live to reach the lake, but having a large number of canoes, the goods and sick men were transported in such a smooth and expeditious manner that there were remarkably few casualties in the remnant of the rear column. But the wild natives having repeatedly defeated Ugarrowas raiders, and by this discovered the extent of their own strength, gave considerable trouble and inflicted considerable loss among our best men, who had always to bear the brunt of the fighting and the fatigue of paddling. When the progress by river became too difficult, the order to cast off the canoes was given. This was four days' journey above Ugarrowas station, or about 300 miles above Bunalaya, and we decided to try the north bank of the Itura river, although we should have to traverse for some days the despoiled lands which had been the common center for the Ugarrowas and Kilongalangas bands of raiders. We were about 100 miles from grass land and this opened up the prospects of future feasts of beef, veal and mutton, and a pleasing variety of vegetables, as well as oil and butter for cooking."

Stanley tells about a terrible time with smallpox among the Manyea, mortality being great. On reaching a village called Andikumu, a large plantation of bananas and plantains was found, and after a severe starvation of fourteen days the party gorged themselves to such excess that many died, and many others were incapacitated for duty for some time.

He tells of severe struggles had for several days with the Wambutti dwarfs and many other dangers encountered by the expedition, and his tale of alternating privations and plenty and of fighting is an extremely interesting one.

EMIN PASHA.

He Has Some Highly Interesting History to Recount.

BERLIN, November 22.—A letter which Dr. Schweinfurth received from Emin Pasha is dated "Mission Station, Ussambria, Victoria Nyanza, August 28th." The Emin expresses the hope that he will soon be able to give an account of the military revolution; the imprisonment of himself and Jephson and Duffile; the arrival of the Mahdists at Ledi; the capture and destruction of Redjaf; the massacre of the soldiers and officers sent against the Mahdists; the departure from Wadelai and flight to Tunguru of the Mahdists and their complete defeat; his final union with Stanley, and his otherwise highly interesting march, geographically, from Albert Nyanza.

Peters' Safety Confirmed.

BERLIN, November 24.—The German Consul at Zanzibar confirms the report of the safety of Dr. Peters.

No Trouble Occurred.

LONDON, November 24.—Reports from Ireland say no trouble occurred there today. Police and troops were out in large force.

DOWN IN NICARAGUA.

American Push and Enterprise Astonishing the Natives.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, November 24.—The Canal Commissioners report that since the landing of the constructing party, June 3rd, the Americans have succeeded in building up the foundations of a town which will be called America. They have landed material for and commenced the construction of a twelve-mile aqueduct; laid a mile or more of broad-gauge railroad; placed thirty-five miles of telegraph in construction; cleared the San Juan, Juanillo, Descada and Silico rivers; built twenty or more permanent camps; cleared the first part of the route of the canal; organized a perfect supply and transportation service, hospital service and ambulance corps; perfected sanitary arrangements and done everything possible to win the good will of Nicaragua and show the world what American push and intelligence can do under the most difficult circumstances. The rapids in the San Juan river will disappear as the water of the lake and river is raised by the Ochca and other dams. When the steamer having aboard the American canal party crossed the lake and the members had seen the canal location which (after passing through the lake) will cut through the Pacific side of the coast, on an air line, only eleven miles of land, river, swamp and basin separated the American engineers from the Pacific ocean.

Galen M. Fisher Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—Galen M. Fisher died at his residence in Oakland, last evening, after a painful illness. He started the First National Bank of Oakland and for five years was its cashier. He was also largely interested in building and real estate transactions. He leaves large property interests in Oakland and also in Fresno, Merced, San Joaquin and Kern counties. A widow and eight children survive him.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

The California Pennant Still in Dispute.

THE SULLIVAN-JACKSON CRAZE.

Idaho Insane Asylum Burned—Some of the Inmates Perished. The Anaconda Fire.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—The Oaklands went to the bat today at the Haight-street park for the deciding game with the San Franciscos, and for the pennant of '89. Van Haltren, who is under contract to play with the Stocktons, stepped up to the home plate. The home club demurred and the managers of the two clubs conferred, but could not agree. The matter was submitted to the umpire who ruled in favor of the Oaklands and ordered the local club to the field. The latter refused to play, and after five minutes the umpire awarded the game to the Oakland club. The manager of the San Franciscos walked up to the scorers' stand and entered a protest, which was greeted with applause by a large number of the 15,000 people present. It was finally decided to play an exhibition game, and submit the umpire's decision to the arbitration board of the National League. The Oaklands went again to the bat, but Van Haltren, Brown and Carroll were displaced by Coughlan, Veach and Stallings. The game was interesting and hotly contested, being won by the Oaklands, by a score of 5 to 4.

FEATURES OF THE GAME.

Coughlan and Hardie were in the points for the Oaklands and both worked together like clock work. Coughlan was unusually effective in his delivery and had great control over the sphere. The local team failed to solve his puzzling curves, and as a result seven of the heaviest batters of Finn's aggregation wielded the willow without effect. Clarke was in the box for the local team, and pitched a magnificent game. In addition to sending but two men to first base on called balls, he allowed but nine hits off his delivery, and struck out seven men. Both pitchers were given excellent support behind the bat. The Oaklands outplayed their opponents. The Oaklands played with only two errors, while the 'Friscos piled up six. Shea played a rank game at short, and to him and Charley Sweeney can be largely attributed the defeat of the local club.

THE SACRAMENTO'S LAST DRUBBING.

STOCKTON, November 24.—The Sacramentos and Stocktons played the last game of the season in the mud this afternoon, and Stockton won by hard hitting, by a score of 10 to 3. Harper pitched a good game. He was touched up for eight base hits, but kept them well scattered. Zeigler was hit hard, being found for fifteen singles, which were so nicely bunched that they were productive of five earned runs. The game was spiritless, and the crowd in the grand stand was as much interested in watching the score of the San Francisco game on the blackboard as in the play on the diamond.

THE SULLIVAN-JACKSON CRAZE.

Santa Cruz Offers $30,000 for a Fight at That Place.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—A special from Santa Cruz says: The following dispatch was sent this evening to Billy Edwards, Hoffman House, New York, to be forwarded to John L. Sullivan:

We will give $30,000 for a fight to a finish between Sullivan and Jackson, to take place on the beach near this city. Have written.

(Signed) SANTA CRUZ ATHLETIC CLUB.

SAN DIEGO'S BIG PRETENSIONS.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., November 24.—An effort will be made to have Peter Jackson and John L. Sullivan battle at Tia Juana, by making a tender of a purse of $20,000 to the winner of the fight, to take place in the amphitheater used for bull fighting, just over the American line. Several sports in Southern California have taken hold of the matter and will put up the desired amount. They will also make an offer to the California Athletic Club for Jackson's release from the contract they now hold with him. In case the offer is accepted the amphitheater will be arranged to seat 10,000 spectators, and the training quarters will be on ground to be selected. It is designed to charge only $5 to see the fight.

THE ANACONDA FIRE.

The Mines Still Burning—Extent of Damage Unknown.

BUTTE, Mont., November 24.—There were no new developments today in the mine fire. The shaft of the Anaconda is bulkheaded, likewise all the levels of the St. Lawrence. It is believed that the carbonic acid gas, which will necessarily be generated in the confined space, will eventually put the fire out. Whether the fire has extended to the workings of the Anaconda or not, no one knows. The number of lives lost is believed to be nine, and two more men are missing. But for Superintendent Carroll's work, with the co-operation of the miners in the bulkheading, the mines' whole vast interior, with their immense underground ramifications, would soon have caved in. As it is, no one can form the least conception of the extent of the damage, and it may be weeks before it will be safe to open the mines again. The company has other mines besides these, so the smelter will not have to be closed down. The future intention of the company, however, is unknown.

INSANE ASYLUM BURNED.

Some of the Inmates Perish in the Flames.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—A Chronicle special from Blackfoot, Idaho, says: The Territorial Insane Asylum was destroyed by fire this morning. The fire caught in the basement from a defective flue early in the morning before all the patients were up, and the greatest difficulty was experienced in rousing them. There were sixty-four patients in the institution, and out of this number two men and two women are known to have perished in the flames. Four others are missing and are supposed to have been burned. The building was entirely gutted, and the walls are all that remain. The loss is estimated at $30,000. It is not known whether there was any insurance on the building.

Subsidizing a Road.

PHOENIX, Ariz., November 24.—The guarantee fund proposed to be raised by the people of Maricopa county for the construction of a line of railroad northward from the city of Phoenix to the line of the Atlantic and Pacific, was assured last evening at a public meeting of citizens of Phoenix and surrounding country. Two hundred and three thousand dollars was subscribed. The required guarantee must be $280,000, but it is thought this can be raised in the adjoining towns of the county which have not yet been canvassed.

A TRAIN UPSET.

An Operator's Device for Telegraphing for Relief.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., November 24.—At 9 o'clock this morning a train on the narrow-gauge railroad from Colfax to this place ran off the track near Buena Vista. The passenger coach, baggage car and tender were turned nearly bottom up. The engine stayed on the track. Nine passengers were on board, but no one was hurt. A telegraph operator on board cut the wires, using the ends of the wires in lieu of an instrument, and telegraphed here for relief.

Fell Into a Hole.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—Captain A. H. Nichols, of the ship Marks, which has been in this port from Seattle for about two weeks, fell into a hole that is being excavated for a building near the City Hall. He was on his way to visit his niece and cut across the lot to save time. He fell eighteen feet, breaking three ribs and sustaining internal injuries. He was not found until this morning. Symptoms of pneumonia are apparent tonight on account of exposure, and his recovery is not assured.

Bonner Came to See Sunol.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—Robert Bonner, of New York, arrived today. The object of his visit is to see the filly Sunol, recently purchased from Senator Stanford, which, under the terms of the sale, remains in the Senator's stable for another year; and to inspect the principal breeding farms of the State. Bonner will go to Napa in a few days, where Sunol is quartered.

From Washington to Washington.

PORTLAND, Ore., November 24.—United States Senator Watson C. Squire, the newly elected Senator for Washington, left here tonight in a special car for the national capital. Senator John B. Allen will leave Walla Walla for Washington in a few days.

Found Dead in the Cemetery.

WATSONVILLE, Cal., November 24.—The body of W. C. Burbank, a contractor of this place, was found in Odd Fellows' cemetery this morning. It is supposed he committed suicide while temporarily insane.

THE ORPHANS' FAIR.

Two Good Stories in Connection With the Event.

Officer O'Reagan, who was detailed by the Chief to see that the boys at the fair behaved themselves properly, was treated to a sad practical joke Saturday night. He has a large, commanding figure, and as he walked slowly and solemnly up and down the hall he ought to have inspired a reverence for the law in the breasts of the bad boys who were there—but it seems he did not.

One of them got hold of a sign about eight inches square from some booth, and succeeded in pinning it on the officer's broad back. Up and down he walked, and everybody that he passed looked and grinned. Presently the grin extended to a laugh, and then there was a great uproar of applause. The officer finding himself suddenly the center of attraction whirled around once or twice and then discovered what the people were all gazing at. He tore off the sign and held it up. It read as follows:

NAME IT AND YOU CAN HAVE IT.

10 CENTS A GUESS.

The ladies of the fair, assisted by several young gentlemen, published daily during the week a little paper which they called the Orphans' Appeal. The managing editor was Dr. Kannon, and he was very particular about what went into the columns. For example, when Henry Dockweiler or any of the other assistant editors would write any squibs which reflected upon the good looks or behavior of the managing editor he would kill the copy, and ease his mind by running in some grind on them. The subordinates grew tired of this at last and entered into a conspiracy to get square with the doctor. A lot of matter was prepared, including a comic soliloquy on the part of the editor, and a number of severe grinds on him, which was set up at the office where the paper was printed. On Saturday, when the last issue was to come out, the doctor stood by until the paper went to press. When a few copies had been run off the doctor departed and the conspirators appeared on the scene. The forms were unlocked, the new matter to the extent of several columns was inserted, and the press started up again. The assistant editors who suffered in silence during the first part of the week, are now repeating the maxim that 'he laughs best who laughs last."

THROUGH THE ARM.

A Brooklyn Heights Man Meets With an Accident.

A Brooklyn Heights carriage-maker named R. Albert Sturdy accidentally wounded himself with a Winchester rifle yesterday morning at his residence on City View avenue, between St. Louis and Cromwell avenues.

The accident occurred at about 9 o'clock. The man was engaged in cleaning a Winchester rifle and supposed that it was empty. A single charge still remained in it and this went off. The bullet passed through the fleshy part of his arm between the elbow and shoulder and inflicted a painful but not serious wound. He had, however, a rather narrow escape from death as the bullet passed within an inch or two of his head.

Advertising Los Angeles.

Mr. A. H. Hutchinson is making arrangements to go East, where he will lecture on Southern California, its climate, people and resources. Mr. Hutchinson has delivered several chalk talks in this city recently, and has a knack of entertaining an audience throughout. He is preparing a series of photographic views of Los Angeles and the neighboring towns, which he will have transferred to stereopticon slides, and in this manner will be able to illustrate his remarks. A number of excellent views have already been obtained, and others are being prepared, and it is more than probable that the entire series will be the best that has ever gone East from here.

Illinois Association.

There was, as usual on Saturday evening, a crowded house at the Illinois entertainment. It was the last one to be given in Masonic hall, as the successful organization will open its new and much larger hall, on Fort and Sixth streets, next Friday evening. There was a general social, in which all present were made to feel "at home;" and the enthusiastic audience heartily enjoyed and applauded the instrumental music by Prof. Elser's City Band; piano and violin music by Misses Johnston, James, and Mrs. Clark; the recitations of Messrs. A. G. Hough, F. L. Grosvesnor, Miss Loomis and Miss Hersee, and the vocal selections of Mr. Defty and Mrs. Scholes.

OVER 100,000 CASES TREATED DURING the past 22 years. All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved MEDICATED INHALATIONS and the OXYGEN TREATMENT, which has such a wonderful reputation in the East.

OXYGEN antagonizes and thoroughly removes every poison of the system from the Blood, no matter from what cause it exists or how long it has continued, and is efficacious in the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Nervous Prostration, Insomnia and Dyspepsia, etc., together with any poisoned condition of the blood.

In all cases of Catarrh and other diseases of the Respiratory Organs, where the system suffers from the deleterious effects of scrofula or other vitiated condition of the blood local treatment is invariably conjoined with constitutional remedies.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless, unless the disease has advanced to the chest and both lungs are seriously involved. The inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in connecting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best of references from those already cured.

Those who desire to consult me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally can write for list of questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address

The Supple Case.

Louis Supple states that he has never been divorced from his wife and that he never followed her or dogged her footsteps. He states that a week ago last Monday she wrote to him at the San Gabriel winery, asking for an appointment. He met her the next day and she proposed that they live together again. Mr. Supple told her this was impossible, and told her he would support her until he procured a divorce. He gave her enough money to last her until Saturday, and said he would make arrangements to place her in a boarding-house. She then left. At Fremont she registered as Miss Mable Alley, and at San Bernardino as Brown. She also went to Colton, East Riverside, Redlands and back to Riverside, where Supple found her with Fred Holden on Tuesday night last. He then preferred the charges against them. He states that he will commence proceedings for a divorce next week again.

If you cannot go out to The Raymond and spend a day, a week, a month, or the whole season, then go out and stay a few hours. It is well worth your while to see the magnificent view from its piazzas; and that view alone will well repay you, although there are many other interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are now under the charge of Mr. C. H. Hovey, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of Hovey's Nurseries, Cambridge, Mass. Tourists visiting Los Angeles should make a trip to The Raymond, even if their stay there must necessarily be brief. There are frequent trains between Los Angeles and The Raymond by several lines of railroad. The orchestra consists of four soloists, who render the choicest of music twice each day.

A very complete livery is connected with the hotel, and it is an excellent starting-point for a drive through the San Gabriel valley, in which are situated the San Gabriel Mission church, Rose's winery, Lucky Baldwin's stock farm, the Sierra Madre Villa, and many other places of interest.

Full particulars regarding board and other matters can be obtained by addressing C. H. Merrill, Manager of The Raymond, East Pasadena, California.
